The bulk of historical writing is an account of prominent lives and pivotal events, but these stories are small portions of a larger tale. History is the sum of all experiences, though only a select few are ever memorialized.

American Heritage is seeking stories that show how the past has touched ordinary people in a significant way. If you have had a brush with history and feel it is a story that would be compelling to others, please write to us at:

Please limit your story to 500–1000 words, and either send it as a typed hard-copy letter or place it in the body of an email. We will not open attachments. All submissions are sent on speculation and receipt does not guarantee publication. Due to the volume of stories we receive, only those stories selected for press will receive a response.
